

THE VILLAGE VOICE

35¢ New York City 50¢ U.S.
Copyright 1974 The Village Voice Inc.

VOL. XIX No. 45

THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER OF NEW YORK

THUR. NOV. 7, 1974

BED TIME STORIES

MISS MARGUERITE YOUNG, MY DARLING

DARLING: Marguerite Young is from Indiana and, in our book, that's a step in the right direction. In her justly celebrated novel, "Miss Macintosh, My Darling" we have a sort of Arabian Nights of American life—drug addiction, murder, suicide, imaginary pregnancy, schizophrenia, gambling, and what not. Thanks to WBAI, the what not will get a featured series of radio programs dedicated to Miss Young and her book. The first program is prefaced by Annais Nin speaking about her long friendship with M. Young. An interview follows by Charles Ruas, a professor at Columbia University. In the weeks to follow, there will be a series of dramatic readings from Miss Macintosh, using such discriminating actors as Alice Playten, James Coco, and others. The series will run for 15 consecutive weeks. Scheduling information is available over WBAI's programming announcements. Considering "Miss Macintosh" was 3449 in typescript, this series could prove to be the start of something big.

(Marguerite Young series, WBAI, Sunday, November 10, 9.45 p.m.) (DT)

Marguerite Young

Miss Macintosh,
my Darling

VVVV

